EDITOR'S NOTE

Hey key clubbers!

This newsletter is only a teeny tiny bit later than usual, which is a big improvement from last month, so I think that deserves a round of applause! woooooo <3 also oops- lowkey making my notes some kinda ted talk idk

It's finally December! I'm so happy it's nearing Christmas! I hope that, even amidst the pandemic, you'll celebrate this holiday with your loved ones in mind, even if you're unable to be there with them physically. It's never a bad thing to give gifts—just make sure to clean them or something xx

Moving on, I know you're probably enjoying this break by relaxing seeing as we no longer have school. I know that I definitely am, I've been calling people daily and I am lowkey drained but it's fine LOL, I love talking to them. Even though you're probably having fun and enjoying this break, don't forget to continue serving! After all, this is a club dedicated to none other than service! I hope to see you all at socials, DCMs, and service projects this break~ (´•̣̣̣•̀)♡

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Hey Key Clubbers,

I hope you're all enjoying Winter break so far! I know I am considering I've been the definition of lazy since break started. It's seriously crazy how it feels like time is moving so fast yet so slow at the same time. I swear Thanksgiving was just last week, but apparently not. Speaking of holidays, Christmas is finally coming up! I mean, I personally like New Year's Eve more than Christmas, but that's just me. I feel like the only thing that has really made me realize Christmas is coming up is the fact that Starbucks is selling Peppermint Mochas. Peppermint Mochas are really good, btw—just thought y'all should know. ANYWAYS, we have lots of projects in store for the holidays, so be sure to participate! Of course, take time to rest, too, but don't let that stop you from doing service!

This is probably the most random message I've written so far, but enjoy it anyway! :D

Shave the Day is an addictive head-shaving game that can be downloaded from the app store. In partnership with Schick Xtreme, Shave the Day was created with the intention of helping the St. Baldrick's Foundation—a nonprofit organization that supports childhood cancer research. Members of Damien Key Club are not unfamiliar with the game in which the player takes on the role of XtremeMan and dodges obstacles while collecting coins and shaving heads. Since members were given the opportunity to do this as a service project before, they understood that the coins they collect while playing the game are converted into a real-life donation made by Schick Xtreme. Members were able to earn hundreds of dollars that will be donated.

APPRECIATION CARDS

Thanksgiving is a holiday often celebrated with family or friends in order to share a meal and give thanks for the blessings one has been given throughout their life. However, with the state on lockdown, it is difficult to physically spend time with family or friends as one usually would on this holiday. Although we are faced with this difficulty, that didn't stop members of the club from expressing their gratitude to the people that are most important to them. For Thanksgiving, members were encouraged to create cards of appreciation for family or friends.

CRANE MAKING

Origami is the art of paper-folding, deriving from the Japanese words “ori” which means folding and “kami” which means paper. It consists of folding one sheet of square paper into a sculpture without cutting, gluing, or taping the paper. Origami cranes are the most popular example of origami. Previously, our cranes were sent to the mainland, however, the club decided to donate the cranes made in November to the Kapiolani Cancer Center with the intent of bringing hope to those with the illness.
